PROCEEDINGS

(In open court at 10:01 a.m.)

THE DEPUTY CLERK: United States District Court is now in session, the Honorable Judge Indira Talwani presiding.

This is Case Number 21-cr-10256, United States v.
Kingsley R. Chin, Aditya Humad, and SpineFrontier, Inc. Will counsel please identify themselves for the record.

MR. GEORGE: Good morning, Your Honor. This is Abraham George for the United States, and I'm joined by my colleague AUSA Christopher Looney.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. LOONEY: Good morning.

MR. POLLACK: Good morning, Your Honor. Barry Pollack on behalf of Defendant Dr. Kingsley Chin and SpineFrontier, Inc., and I'm joined by my partner Josh Solomon.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. SOLOMON: Good morning, Your Honor.

MR. FICK: And good morning, Your Honor. William Fick for Defendant Aditya Humad, and I'm joined by Daniel Marx, my partner.

THE COURT: Good morning. Welcome to the session.

MR. GEORGE: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So I have the final status report, and it looks like we're probably looking for some dates here,

1 including trial dates, correct?

2 MR. GEORGE: That's right, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: How long a trial is the government
4 anticipating?

5 MR. GEORGE: Your Honor, we're anticipating three
6 to five weeks. I'm not -- I think probably closer to three.
7 I'm not sure if -- does Your Honor do half days or full days?

8 THE COURT: 9:00 to 1:00.

9 MR. GEORGE: 9:00 to 1:00. I think --

10 THE COURT: Although my last jury was the first
11 time I've had someone sort of push for a little longer,
12 suggesting 9:00 to 2:00 and inching it up. But, typically, I
13 do 9:00 to 1:00.

14 MR. GEORGE: Okay. Obviously, we want to go as 15 quickly as possible. We're hoping for it to be three weeks.
16 It might be a little longer than that.

17 THE COURT: Okay. And do the defendants see this 18 as, for a time estimate, somewhere in the three-week
19 ballpark, or are you looking for a few more weeks beyond
20 that?

21 MR. FICK: Well, I think we certainly also would 22 not like it to drag on too long. I do think there's a
23 likelihood of there being some defense case. You know, is it
24 one day or five? Probably closer to one, but there's a lot
25 to be figured out between now and then.

1 THE COURT: Okay. So it may make sense to try to
2 find a four-week block. How soon are the parties able to go
3 to trial?

4 MR. POLLACK: Your Honor, before Your Honor joined 5 the call, counsel were discussing late September, because 6 there's some anticipated motion practice that we would ask to 7 file in late January. And it seemed like -- I think early
8 September came up, and then there were concerns about 9 vacations and the like, so late September seemed to be the 10 consensus.

11 THE COURT: And I guess I could do a summer,
12 starting July 15th. Are the parties not interested in a 13 summer date? You don't think you'll be ready by then?

14 MR. POLLACK: We're concerned that we will not be 15 ready by then, Your Honor. And I -- and I think there will 16 be some substantial motion practice as well.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Marchione, how does our 18 September look?

19 THE DEPUTY CLERK: Your Honor, we could begin a
20 trial late September, beginning September 23rd.

21 THE COURT: Okay. And we have a trial before that?

22 THE DEPUTY CLERK: No, Your Honor. We have --
23 September is free.

24 THE COURT: So we could start earlier? What's the 25 earliest we can get started in September, folks?

1 MR. GEORGE: Your Honor, for the government, I
2 think there's some vacations scheduled the last week of 3 August into right around Labor Day. So, obviously, we'll 4 start when you tell us to, but we'd prefer to be as late as 5 possible in September, if it can't be, you know, the end.

6 THE COURT: And do we have Jewish holidays in 7 September this year? Do we know where those are?

8 MR. GEORGE: I just looked that up, Your Honor.
9 It's October 2nd is Rosh Hashanah.

10 THE COURT: I'm sorry? October 2nd?

11 MR. MARX: Thursday and Friday of that week,
12 Your Honor.

13 MR. GEORGE: Yeah.

14 THE COURT: So if we started on the 9th, then we 15 wouldn't be likely getting into the holidays. I just -- you
16 know, we get a case, and then we're starting to lose jury or 17 counsel for that, those holidays. That makes it more
18 difficult.

19 MR. GEORGE: We -- if it helps, Your Honor, we 20 would also be amenable to October, if you'd prefer.

21 THE COURT: It's a 2021 case, so --

22 MR. GEORGE: Yeah, we're happy to do it whenever -- 23 whenever you say, but --

24 THE COURT: Well, I have no conflict with the 25 Jewish holidays, and I don't know if any of you do. It's

1 just a question that it could impact your jury or could
2 impact you. So how do you feel about starting on the 16th,
3 but recognizing that that could mean that we have jurors who 4 don't want to sit the 2nd and 3rd?

5 MR. GEORGE: That -- we're amenable to that,
6 Your Honor.

7 MR. MARX: Yeah, so it would be a conflict for me,
8 Your Honor. Of course, I have co-counsel, and if necessary,
9 I wouldn't want to delay everything if it works for everyone
10 else. But the earlier date in September would be preferable,
11 if we can avoid that conflict.

12 THE COURT: All right. Let's go with the 9th. And 13 I guess the question is, if we set pretrial deadlines so that 14 they're not all coming due in the middle of anticipated
15 vacation, that would be the way, I think, would probably work
16 the best.

17 Okay. So as we sit here -- and I really do try to 18 let people have preplanned vacations and not have those go
19 away. So as we sit here right now, are people out of town
20 August -- the week of August 22nd or week of September 2nd?

21 MR. GEORGE: The week of -- I have Monday,
22 August 26th. I know multiple members of the government team
23 will be out that last week of August. Let me check the week
24 before, if you give me one moment.

25 Yeah, we do have some of us out the week before,

1 also, but --

2 THE COURT: So if we -- and the week of --
3 September 2nd is Labor Day. If we were to have our final 4 pretrial conference the week of the 2nd but have all the 5 filings, pretrial filings due prior to those vacation dates,
6 how does that work for everyone? Other than it meaning
7 you're disclosing things earlier than you would otherwise, 8 but --

9 MR. GEORGE: I think that works for us, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Okay. So I'll work a scheduling --
11 I'll set a scheduling order with a final pretrial -- well,
12 actually, Ms. Marchione, can you give us a date for the week
13 of September 2nd for a final pretrial?

14 THE DEPUTY CLERK: Yes, Your Honor. We can do --
15 we could do pretty much any day, Your Honor. We can do 16 three o'clock on the 4th, the 5th, or we can do 2:30 on the 17 6th.

18 THE COURT: Let's do three o'clock on the 4th of 19 September for a final pretrial, and then I'll get a
20 scheduling order out that has filings in by August 16th.
21 Does that work for everyone?

22 MR. GEORGE: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Now, you said there's -- I'm 24 sorry; did we get everybody there? I wasn't patiently
25 waiting.

1 MR. FICK: I believe so.

2 THE COURT: Okay. You said that you're
3 anticipating other motion practice. What am I -- what are we 4 looking at?

5 MR. POLLACK: I'll speak, Your Honor.

6 We expect to have dispositive motions on some of 7 the counts; in particular, money laundering. I think
8 Mr. Solomon is probably taking the lead on that, if 9 Your Honor wants to hear some of the substance.

10 With regard to the anti-kickback statute charges,
11 we expect either a dispositive motion or a precursor to that,
12 and we haven't finalized the motions yet. We were hoping to 13 have a date. I think with the schedule we have now towards 14 trial, we were hoping to have something towards the end of 15 January as our deadline for the motions.

16 We have holidays, and I have two matters that have 17 created, at least for me -- obviously, other people can work
18 on some of it, but I have an extraordinary schedule over the 19 past -- over the next month or so that makes it difficult to 20 really get going on this until January for me.

21 THE COURT: Okay. So I don't want the substance of 22 the motions, particularly, now; but if we set a final date
23 for all dispositive motions by January 26th, any problem with 24 meeting that?

25 MR. POLLACK: That's perfect for me, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: Okay. And then how much time for
2 opposing? You want to start with the two-week and then see
3 what they file?

4 MR. GEORGE: I'm just looking at the calendar,
5 Your Honor. One thing I have in mind is the school vacation
6 week in February. Sorry. I'm just pulling up my calendar.

7 THE COURT: That's, I think, early this year.

8 MR. SOLOMON: It's February 17th this year.

9 MR. GEORGE: Yes. So if we could have maybe till
10 February 16th?

11 THE COURT: That's fine.

12 MR. GEORGE: That will give us three weeks.

13 MR. SOLOMON: The only issue I would have with that 14 is a reply, Your Honor, because I will be away on the week of 15 school break, so --

16 THE COURT: So I don't allow a reply as a matter of 17 course, so let's set this with the February 16th date. I
18 encourage everyone to try to figure out your arguments before
19 all the briefing is done.

20 I actually think that Rule 7.1 from the civil side
21 does still apply here. It's -- all the rules. And so my 22 hope is that there's conferring, you understand each other's 23 arguments before you file, and I don't have to read a reply
24 brief. But I will -- you know, if it comes in and it appears 25 that a reply brief is necessary, you're welcome to ask for

1 leave. And I understand that that's school vacation week.
2 We'll get it after that.

3 But my preference is, really, that you try to do
4 some of the argument, the -- understanding each other's 5 arguments in advance rather than afterward.

6 MR. SOLOMON: Understood. Thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Anything else we need to -- oh, we need
8 to deal with time.

9 MR. GEORGE: Your Honor --

10 THE COURT: Time is excluded through today.

11 MR. GEORGE: We have one other matter to address.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. GEORGE: So there's the prospect of an
14 advice-of-counsel defense in this case, and we would request
15 that the Court set a deadline prior to pretrial conference
16 that the defendants make an election as to whether they're 17 going to raise that defense or not. Our suggestion is at 18 least 60 days out from the pretrial conference.

19 MR. POLLACK: Your Honor, some of our briefing may 20 touch on this, but -- in the motion practice we anticipate --
21 but this is not a case where you'd have traditional reliance
22 on counsel like in a securities fraud case and attempting to 23 meet an affirmative defense of good faith. The government 24 has a specific intent burden here to prove, and the 25 presentation of counsel is more of a wide-open issue.

1 So we don't think -- I think the briefing -- maybe
2 the government should do a motion on this if the government
3 believes that there needs to be some sort of a deadline,
4 should be some sort of a deadline in these types of -- there
5 are different types of specific intent cases, obviously.

6 But if the government -- and we've exchanged some
7 communications on this issue. We asked the government
8 whether it agreed on the specific intent of an intentional
9 violation of a known legal duty, and they refused to answer.
10 They said it's not an appropriate request for discovery.

11 I hope that with Your Honor's encouragement, we can 12 now confer on that issue to learn more about the government's 13 belief of what form of willfulness applies here. And once we 14 understand whether the parties have a consensus or not on the 15 form of specific intent that's at issue, we'd be in a 16 position to make our best argument about whether reliance on 17 counsel is really subsumed in the government's burden to 18 prove mens rea, or whether it's some type of an affirmative
19 defense.

20 But until they let us know what their position is 21 on specific intent, we can't even make that assessment. And 22 it would be unfair to require the defendants to try to guess 23 at what the government's theory of their burden is.

24 MR. GEORGE: Your Honor, if I can respond, I think 25 the burden on the government is to prove a violation of the

1 anti-kickback statute or a conspiracy to violate the AKS.
2 And what willfulness is under the AKS is well established.
3 The First Circuit case in Bay State Ambulance handles that.
4 Your Honor has ruled on that in cases.

5 So we're not refusing to answer. It's just the 6 defendants asked us for, essentially, a jury instruction
7 three days ago, when we're months away from trial.

8 So to the extent that the defendants want to prove
9 that they acted in good faith, whether either -- excuse me --
10 through advice of counsel or presence of counsel or an advice
11 of counsel light, that burden is plainly on them. And if 12 they want to prove a presence-of-counsel defense, we think 13 they should be -- that they should let the Court and the 14 government know at least 60 days before trial. That's common
15 practice.

16 MR. POLLACK: Your Honor?

17 THE COURT: Yes.

18 MR. POLLACK: May I, please, respond?

19 So the last three courts that have addressed this 20 issue directly -- it's the Second Circuit and two other lower 21 courts in the Second Circuit -- have all said that the 22 willfulness standard is the intentional violation of a known
23 legal duty standard.

24 I don't believe that issue has been actually 25 litigated and resolved in the First Circuit. As the

1 government is saying, basically, it just thinks it has to
2 prove "willfully." We all know there are different
3 definitions of "willful" depending on the applicable statute.
4 And at this point, we do not understand that we have the 5 burden to prove good faith.

6 We have the ability to obtain an acquittal by a
7 jury finding reasonable doubt that our clients acted with 8 willfulness and possibly the --

9 THE COURT: So let me just sort of short-circuit
10 the discussion a little bit and let you know how I sort of 11 think about sort of the structure of a case overall.

12 I think the -- we talk about what the law is that 13 applies to a case at different times, right? When people
14 test the sufficiency of the indictment originally, when you
15 are asking for jury instructions, when you're asking for a 16 new trial at all of these different stages, people are 17 talking about the law.

18 My view of it is the law should be the same all the 19 way through. And so early -- if you understand how I will 20 view your disputes on the jury instructions, that would be 21 informative on all of this.

22 And so, Mr. George, to say that, well, that's a
23 jury instruction, we don't need to get to it yet, is accurate
24 in terms of the timing of the orders; but in terms of a way
25 to tee up what the dispute really is, it's -- you know, it is

1 sort of one way to try to figure out where we are.

2 And rather than, you know, as both on the civil
3 side and on the criminal side, everyone has disputes about 4 whether there's some certain discovery or whether -- whose 5 burden it is to disclose what, but to some degree, the 6 fundamental question is going to be who has to prove what at 7 the end of the day.

8 So I'm happy to try to have that question teed up
9 earlier and then we can figure out the schedule, because 10 rather than saying here's the schedule to do it, which is,
11 essentially, saying I'm agreeing with you, Mr. George, on the 12 legal issue, which right now as I sit here, I certainly don't 13 know one way or another. I haven't thought about it this 14 morning, and whatever I thought about yesterday, I don't 15 particularly remember.

16 So I would suggest that you confer with each other.
17 I don't -- you know, obviously, the defense's stance --
18 guards very hard what they don't have to show or do have to 19 show; but I see no reasons for us not to figure out what the 20 legal issues are.

21 So my suggestion would be that you confer with each
22 other and give me a proposal after you confer with each other
23 of a way to tee this up, which isn't to say here's the date
24 to disclose, but here's the date to -- one side or the other
25 will file something, whether it's a proposed jury instruction

1 or whether it's a legal brief on the legal elements.

2 I don't have a strong view which way to do it. I
3 just have a strong view that we have to get in front of the 4 legal issue, and then the rest should hopefully follow from 5 that.

6 MR. GEORGE: Your Honor, I understand that. That
7 makes sense. We will confer. And we'll file -- we'll file a
8 motion, if need be, if we don't get anywhere with the confer.

9 MR. POLLACK: Thank you, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Would you like to set another status
11 conference so that we can just sort of make sure where we are 12 with these dates, or would you just like to do it by motion?
13 And I'm indifferent.

14 MR. GEORGE: I think it would be helpful,
15 Your Honor, to set another hearing maybe in two to three 16 months. And I think it -- you know, at the very least, we -- 17 there's no reason we can't deal with the issue we were just 18 discussing, at a minimum.

19 THE COURT: Okay. So why don't we set something in 20 January, and just another status or -- I guess it's 21 technically a further pretrial conference, whatever you want
22 to label it. Give us something in January.

23 THE DEPUTY CLERK: Yes, Your Honor. I'm looking at 24 your January schedule. We can do an interim pretrial
25 conference on Friday, January 12th, at 2:45.

1 MR. GEORGE: That works for the --

2 THE COURT: Does that work for everyone?

3 MR. GEORGE: I'm sorry. Yeah. Mr. Looney and 4 Mr. Callahan have trials then. So maybe later in January or 5 when --

6 THE COURT: The following week, maybe?

7 MR. LOONEY: We both have different trials starting 8 January 8th that may go into that second week. So if we 9 could do the third week in -- the third week after 10 January 8th --

11 MR. POLLACK: Your Honor?

12 MR. LOONEY: -- the week of the 22nd.

13 MR. POLLACK: Would it make sense for this to 14 happen at least after we file our initial motion since there
15 may be multiple issues that can be discussed? I mean, we 16 wouldn't have a resolution of the motion, but it might help
17 illuminate some of these issues.

18 I mean, obviously, I didn't ask Mr. George for a
19 jury instruction. I don't think he meant to say literally I
20 asked for a jury instruction. There are issues concerning -- 21 remember, it's not just individuals named here.

22 SpineFrontier, Inc., is named, and there are lawyers who have 23 worked for SpineFrontier, Inc. So this is a little bit
24 different than the traditional sense. And it might actually 25 help inform a status conference for them to see the fruits of 1 our motion first.

2 I wouldn't expect Your Honor to be taking that on,
3 but it might actually make it -- instead of coming in and 4 saying, hey, in a week they're going to see this, in 5 fairness -- or we can put it off until they've opposed --

6 THE COURT: No, I don't want to do a mini hearing
7 on the motion before I have a hearing on the motion, because 8 I -- you know, it's very inefficient for me to be sort of 9 dipping in and out that way.

10 I guess what I would do, what I would say,
11 Mr. Pollack, is that I'm very serious about the 7.1
12 conferences being a good chance to sort of talk through 13 things, and you will have done that in advance of your 14 filing.

15 And so in that mode, when you are having 16 discussions about all of that, I think that's a perfectly
17 fine time to have our status conference rather than waiting
18 until they've seen your final product and are going to be 19 chomping at the bit to respond to --

20 MR. POLLACK: Well, so maybe I sort of misphrased
21 which way to do this, but I think I heard Mr. George say that 22 he was -- to the extent they're asking for a deadline, they 23 do expect it to be later anyway. It may make sense to 24 discuss this reliance-on-counsel issue along with the motions
25 that we're filing in January. So maybe -- because I do think

1 you're going to hear from us all sorts of things on that that
2 relate to our motions.

3 So it might make sense to do it all at once,
4 whether it's in March, but I think we'd come in in January
5 about this reliance on counsel saying some of what I'm saying
6 now and say that our motions impact that issue. So would it
7 make sense to --

8 THE COURT: Okay. Where I think I don't want to be 9 is in the position where I get your briefings, and you're 10 asking me to sort of resolve everything you've put forward in 11 your substantive motions to dismiss in order to set a
12 schedule for how we're going to tee up the next issue. I'm 13 concerned about how far in.

14 So let's do this. Let's go with a status
15 conference in January. If in January you've convinced each
16 other that it would be better for me to address this issue
17 later, you know, maybe it'll be an easy answer. And if not,
18 maybe you'll say your points, and I may say, you know what?
19 I still can't figure this out until I read your papers, or 20 maybe I will be able to. But let's just go ahead and have a
21 status conference and have you have discussions with each
22 other by then so we are doing --

23 You know, and, really, I think the way to -- I
24 am -- I really appreciate it when lawyers think creatively
25 about how do we tee up issues efficiently. That's -- I don't

1 want to stop anyone from being heard on an issue, and I don't
2 want to, you know, try to create havoc as we're going 3 through.

4 But I do feel like sometimes, you know, people do
5 things always in the same order; and you say, well, we don't 6 have to do this until this point, and we don't have to do
7 this until this point. But there are fundamental issues
8 that, if we could resolve them, the sooner we -- the sooner
9 you have my understanding of the legal requirements here, the 10 sooner everyone can be working efficiently towards their 11 case.

12 I mean, what you don't want and what's, you know, a 13 waste of everybody's time is we get all the way through, and 14 I'm telling you after you've assumed I'm going to come down
15 one way, at the end of the day, I say, you know what? I
16 really think it's something slightly different than that.

17 So to the extent we can get the legal issue teed up
18 and then from that figure out what that means in terms of 19 does this have to be disclosed, when does it have to be 20 disclosed, does it not have to be disclosed, et cetera, I
21 just think that's -- that would be helpful.

22 And so that's really all I'm -- and, I mean, if 23 what you come down to is you say -- which I think is what 24 you're saying, Mr. Pollack, is that this depends on whether I 25 agree with at least on part of your argument, not the

1 entirety of your anticipated argument, but if I agree with at 2 least part of it, that that might make a difference in terms
3 of the schedule.

4 And that may be, but let's just go ahead and try to 5 see if we can move it efficiently and have a conference in 6 January while your heads are in this material, at least from 7 the defendants' side. I mean, the government may not be 8 thinking about this too much in January, but at least from 9 the defendants' side, you will have been thinking about it,
10 and see if we can come up with a proposal for what's the 11 efficient way to move forward on this question.

12 MR. POLLACK: Thank you, Your Honor. I think 13 having done this as long as I have, I sometimes am just 14 trying to think how might I be criticized. And in January, I
15 didn't want to be in a situation where you might ask why are 16 we having this conference if you were just going to come back
17 and say we can't rule on this until after the briefing?

18 So I understand. Maybe we'll be in a different
19 position based on a more extensive give-and-take than what 20 I've had with Mr. George so far so that we understand what 21 standards everybody's operating on, and maybe that's going to 22 make this issue either more complicated, less complicated.
23 And so I'll certainly make myself available.

24 My schedule is tight, but it's not so tight that I
25 can't meet and confer. It's harder to work on motion

1 practice. So I'll be available to confer with him and try to 2 work through this.

3 THE COURT: So, Ms. Marchione, did we get a date
4 there or not?

5 THE DEPUTY CLERK: Your Honor, you have a very
6 tight schedule in January. You have sentencing most 7 afternoons, and you're in trial most mornings. But I do have 8 the 29th of January, which is a Monday, at 2:45.

9 THE COURT: Let's go with it.

10 MR. GEORGE: Thank you.

11 THE COURT: Okay. I take it that, with a joint 12 request for a September date, I will also have an unopposed
13 motion to exclude time until then?

14 MR. SOLOMON: Yes, Your Honor.

15 MR. LOONEY: We'll file a motion.

16 MR. POLLACK: Yes, Your Honor.

17 My cursor keeps flying past the "mute" and 18 "unmute." I keep trying to hit it, and it flies past it for 19 some reason today. All right. Sorry.

20 Sure. There's an agreement.

21 THE COURT: Okay. So the government will file
22 something. I will appreciate that.

23 MR. GEORGE: Yes, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Anything else we need to address
25 today?

1 MR. FICK: I don't believe so.

2 MR. GEORGE: Not from the government.

3 MR. FICK: Not for the defense.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you very much.

5 MR. SOLOMON: Thank you, Your Honor.

6 MR. GEORGE: Thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: See you in the new year.

8 THE DEPUTY CLERK: We are in recess.

9 (Court in recess at 10:29 a.m.)
